

Master thesis Politics and religion in Subcarpathian Rus between years 1919–1929 focuses on the problems of political and religious matters in Subcarpathian Rus between the years 1919 and 1929. The introductory is dedicated to the brief historical overview until the unification with Czechoslovakia. Further it deals with the administrative division and with the analysis of the political situation. The thesis summarises different political parties – autonomous, czechoslovakian, jewish and hungarian. It deals with the municipal elections and with the parliamentary elections in 1924, 1925 and 1929. Religion is essentially connected to Subcarpathian Rus. Most of the Rusyn intelligence were clergymen, some of them were also politically active. Therefore the final part is dedicated to the religious matters and the relationship between Greek Catholic Church and Eastern Orthodox Church.