An objective of the project is to develop a modular fulltext search engine using MySQL database server. The search engine should operate with the Czech language's specific attributes. There is no endeavor to develop high quality modules solving linguistic problems. Project should provide interface and ability to plug-in (plug-out) next modules. Project's software platform is Unix, programming language C++.