

The technique how to create a structure from a musical piece, which can be processed by the algorithms on strings, is presented in the work. In order to create such a structure the knowledge of music theory and harmony is needed. The work is also focused on selection of appropriate types of algorithms and their detailed description. The work explains the implementation of constituent elements and also contains the representative sample of created structure and output of the algorithms with detailed commentary.