

Psychosis is a word for illnesses with similar symptoms. Schizophrenia is also a psychosis. It is a serious mental illness starting in early age and that is why it can influence the continuity of life of disordered person. This is the reason why it is very important that the disordered person can easily get the right and early help by rehabilitation. I make a difference between two kinds of community in this thesis. First community is civic which is natural environment where everybody lives. The other community I am witting about is therapeutic one. For me the importance of civic community is mainly in prevention of mental disorders and early interception of psychotic disorder. The therapeutic community helps the disordered schizophrenic person with fixing relationships and getting self-confidence in communication and in life between other people, members of community. The other priority of community care is to integrate handicapped people back to the society. The easiest way to provide the helps is in the natural environment of disordered person. The aim of community care is to minimize the number of hospitalizations and shorter the period if hospitalization is necessary. The advantage of community care is orientation in after-care after the release from bed care.
