Annotation:

The thesis refers to the connection of spiritual and physical life and finds the spiritual dimension of a woman as a mother on the background of predetermination and being chosen of every individual, which leads to, or is crowned in the very eschatological sense.

The aim of the thesis, finding the spirituality of motherhood in everyday life of the mother, was found in the fact that it is common to all Christians. The mother specifically fulfils her mission. It starts with desire, procreates in the connection of a man and a woman, which is depicted in Revelation and creates Unity. It consists in accepting one's mission so that it could bring joy, which springs from Jesus Christ. It is given by hope, belief and love, through accepting Christianity, by means of our own life and our descendants or fruit of our work, to expand further the Kingdom of Heaven.

Love in the spirituality of motherhood has an immense importance. This aspect, which purely springs from Love of God himself, is determining for the motherhood, because motherhood is full of love and has the power to spread the love everywhere.

The greatness of love lies in the greatness of motherhood as well.
