

Abstract

The diploma thesis: „International Organization of Journalists (1946-1991)“ deals with the history, development, aims and activities of the International Organization of Journalists in the period of 1946 - 1991. The introductory part of the text is focused on a resumption of the three most important international journalistic organizations established before 1946.