

Annotation

This diploma thesis “Margaret More Roper: an English Woman in Reformation Period“ deals with the English reformation during the reign of Henry VIII and with the English woman Margaret More Roper, who lived during that time and who was the pioneer of humanistic educated women in England and one of the first well educated woman in Europe. I set her life and work into the context of Renaissance, Humanism and English reformation. Also I give attention into her only survived work, a translation of Erasmus’ commentary on Lord’s prayer. Within this thesis I deal with another educated woman who lived in 16th century. Her name is Katharina Schütz Zell and she is an author of the commentary on Lord’s prayer.

Keywords

Margaret More Roper – Thomas More – Humanism and Renaissance – Females’ Status and Education in 16th century – Henry VIII and English Reformation – Katharina Schütz Zell – Commentaries on Lord’s Prayer