

This work follows up the interconnectedness of the theme of the water and other inseparable phenomena, including their symbolism and not only in the biblical and non-biblical texts but also in an interdisciplinary context (respectively with an overlap into the sphere of contemporary ecology using personal and professional experiences). The work can be framework divided into three blocks (general, biblical and ecological), including a brief exegesis of selected biblical texts.