

I wrote about ethicotherapy because I'm interested in psychosomatic view of diseases in my work. In the first part I focused on a historical view of connection among body, soul and health. There are also chapters in which I introduced history of psychosomatic approach and ethicotherapy generally with its methodical approach. In the second part I compared a relationships between the doctors with their patients and the ethicotherapists with their clients was compared, too. I described the ways of work in the ethicotherapy and their clients and I mentioned a profit of disease. In the third part I wrote about a cancer in ethicotherapy view. I wanted to show how difficult is to treat these disease all the other incidental difficulties.
