Bachelor thesis on artificial intelligence for Agricola deals with the actual implementation of the game, the computer controlled player, and the creation of a strategy for the human player. The developed program allows, in a basic scope, user-computer play, parallel simulation of computer games against each other, data analysis, display of game history.