

Abstract (in English)

The topic of the diploma thesis is the Orava dialect preserved in the territory of two villages located on the territory of Poland - Zubrzyca Górna and Zubrzyca Dolna. The thesis first focuses on the description of phonetic and lexical changes that occur in the dialect of a group of speakers representing different generations. The aim is also to determine the framework of dialect use, i.e. communication situations in which it is actively used. The basis for the presented findings is field research. The main material is recordings of interviews on specific topics that were conducted in the researched area between 2021-2022.
