

Abstract:

This thesis contains research about ideas of wars and peace by a three authors writing in a latin language, Pliny Younger, Suetonius and Tacitus, who were living in 2nd century CE. It abstracts data by analysis of a segment of text. After the data abstraction ideas of each authors is reconstructed by synthesis and i tis studed the authors backround. If during the data synthesis is found any difference between the authors, it is interpreted based on their origin. Based on similarity it is judged whether a single idea about the concept of wars existed in that time.
