

This thesis deals with the Berry curvature and its effect on the equations of motion of electrons in solids. The main topic is the introduction of the Berry curvature followed by its calculation by the ab-initio method. In this work, we will calculate the Berry curvature of bcc iron, from which we subsequently calculate the orbital magnetization and anomalous conductivity.