

Abstract

This master thesis aims to create and describe seven lessons of an educational block on ethics and moral psychology, which will subsequently serve as guidance for pedagogues who decide to teach similar topics.

The first lesson will deal with the trolley problem, the second with the basic ethical theories of deontology, utilitarianism, and virtue ethics, the third with the stages of moral development, the fourth with the ethics of care, the fifth with cognitive dissonance and effective altruism, the sixth with the cultural relativism and the last seventh lesson will be devoted to the final reflection of the whole educational block.
