

This work is engaged in history, theology and practices of Alpha Courses, which are contemporary, a largest ecumenical activity of evangelization. Practically all Christian churches are participated in it. This thesis would like to show historical ancestors, in which are Courses rooted, such as Charismatic and Cell Movement and describe their Ecclesiology, Christology and Pneumatology of Alpha Courses. On the basis of this knowledge the thesis can analyze aim of Alpha Course and their ambitions helping create a visible unity of participated churches. This visible unity can help - through united confession - to christianize nations in which Courses are arranged. Part of this thesis is list of criticism, which is heard through Christian churches today.
