

Eating and diet habits in ancient Palestine

English summary:

This bachelor thesis is mainly focused on gastronomic habits in the time of the Old Testament and New Testament. The main topic is a typical banquet of the mentioned time period. The first part describes how Jewish and Roman people were preparing and keeping food and in what way they were celebrating symposiums. The second part solves the relation of our Lord, Jesus Christ, to the food, his speeches on banquets and comparisons with the symposium in the Kingdom of the God – eschatological God's symposium. There is also being solved the relation of Jesus to the establishment of Eucharist and the Last Supper of our Lord according to St. Paul. In the brief way also problems of Christians in the ancient society is mentioned. The last part answers some questions given in the introduction part and summarises all the information gained by studies of appropriate literature sources.

5 keywords:

Bachelor thesis about food in ancient Palestine

New Testament banquet Lord Jesus Food The last supper