

Prague metro

This bachelor thesis deals with the Prague Metro. The modern means of transport in addition to its main functions the role of architectural. My thesis deals with the history, incorporating urbanism and links to the organism of Prague. In addition, the work its examines the architectural and construction principles implemented within the building. The work of compiling and analysis of individual works of literature and with the help of my own experience.