

Abstract:

DONATION OF THE NEW LIFE – Mark: 5,21-43
Use of the Scientific Exegesis in Lectio Divina

This study presents applicability of results of the biblical sciences on the field of spirituality and practical spiritual life, how they are used in the method of reading the Bible – lectio divina. It also discovers connections among biblical different biblical texts as they are used in the Christian liturgy, concretely in the order of the readings for the Mass. The structure of the study is based on full literary analysis of Mark 5:21-43 and demonstrates how it can be used in singular parts of lectio divina. The introduction of the study characterizes and describes the method of spiritual reading and methods of biblical sciences. The conclusion notices application of the methods of the scientific exegesis in practical spiritual life and in liturgy. The last part also describes context of the Christian liturgy and lectio divina.

Keyword catalogue:

Biblical science
Gospel of Mark

Lectio Divina

Literary Analysis
Liturgy

Počet znaků:

113 210 (včetně
mezer a poznámek pod čarou)