

The goal of this work is to give an account of a life, above all a political career of Indira Gandhi. The structure of this work is divided in chronological sequence, the first part considers entirely her personal life, the other parts of the work go in for Indira's political career against a background of a historical affairs in India since the beginning of 70th until 90th.