

Abstract

Bachelor thesis “First Generation of RAF in Selected Media” focuses on the doings of the first generation of the terrorist group Red Army Fraction in years 1970-77 and its reflection in the Czechoslovakian press. First part pays attention to historical development of German society in 60's and to the student movement of 1968. One whole chapter is then dedicated to biography of the first generation leaders. Following part describes then the activities of Red Army Fraction from its start until the death of the first generation members in Stammheim. Briefly will be also mentioned in this chapter the second and third generation of RAF and its final seizure of activities. Final part analyses the level of information about activities of first generation in Czechoslovakia, in particular in daily journals “Rude pravo” and “Prace”. Further will be also discussed the development of Czech press since 1948 and its evaluation.