Christian values in relation to the life of an adolescent

The theme of the diploma thesis concerns the scope of questions about the period of growing up and adolescence, when a person can be influenced by disturbed and discordant family relationships and at the same time by miscellaneous negative impulses of the society.

The aim of my work is on the one hand to make visible the variety of influences on the development and the shaping of the opinion of an adolescent, and on the other hand to find out and to choose appropriate moral values out of the Christian ethos, which could be used as a basis for layman or therapeutic supporting dialogue reacting to concrete adolescents' problems. They could offer him/her not only a solution of their own problems but also lead him/her to a deeper reflection of their own life - namely in perspective of the Christian faith.
