

Abstract

This publication acquaints closer with the personality of Father Samuel Fritz, Czech Jesuit, who in the turn of the 17th and 18th century served a mission at the Marañon River, sailed the Amazon River up to its estuary, created a map of the stream, and established over 40 Indian settlements. The work deals with the aforementioned map, offering an authentic sample of the Father's journal and also deals with his own biography.