The goal of this bachelor work is to make an application that should help the frequenter of congresses, symposiums, conferences and workshops to monitor dates of deadlines and act. User can choose from large volumes of events, which he or she is interested in. He or she can set up in which period of preparing for contribution on event he or she is. A calendar of important deadlines is presented on the basis of this information. The choice is simlified by filters and ordering of events.There is a system of user acounts and user rights and restrictions in aplication. These rights are for limitation of adding and editing events and for setting up a form of application. The simple adding events by parsing of incoming e-mails is also a part of this application.
