

Abstract

Goal of this bachelor thesis is to give an instruction about ways and possibilities to reach a subsidy. In the first part is subscribe clearly theoretically few pages about applied research, including dividing and describing the most often use research methods. In the second part bachelor thesis point on describing organization which gives a subsidy and describing subjects which can receive a subsidy. In the third part is the description of few projects, which were successfully finished.