

Abstract

The thesis describes and analyses various types of parts-of-speech homonymy of forms of passive participles in current Czech. The theoretical basis is particularly Czech grammar and specialized publications on annotating a corpora, the analysed materials are data from written synchronized corpora (SYN2010). In the second part of the thesis, disambiguation rules of selected types of homonymics are formulated based on formal characteristics.