

The thesis attend to relations between USA and Great Britain from the peace treaty of 1783 until the abortive convention of 1807. It is focused on chosen issues of the relations and analyses their development. The first part gives an outline of these issues after the peace treaty. The main goal for the second part is the development and changes of the problems and a conclusion for this period is Jay-Geenville Treaty. The final part is focused on an aftermath of this treaty and the relations after 1800. The thesis contains also a short analyse of War of 1812. The main sources for this work are printed documents, books and journals.