

Abstract

The topic of this bachelor thesis is church education system in the Czech republic after 1989. Its aim is to introduce the topic of church education system, its development and current situation. On the basis of two surveys executed on two secondary church schools the thesis describes the difference between the church operated schools and state operated schools. In this context the thesis also mentions the on-going church restitutions that will influence the future and development of the church education system.