

Abstract

This bachelor's thesis is especially about educational opportunities of children with AD(H)D in the Czech schools. The work is divided into theoretical and practical part. Theoretical part is based on my experience with these children. The main target of this thesis is compiled on the basis of case reports and observations to map the behavior of children in the school environment and the education.